

The 5

Disciplines of Exceptional Execution

Essential differences between Turbo-charged teams and those that putt along

Excellence teams excel at execution. This program provides five clear disciplines that, when employed, ensure focus and execution on your organization's top priorities.

Success in today's competitive marketplace requires focus on and execution of the company's top priorities every day. For organizations to achieve goals they have never achieved before, they must do things they have never done before.

Your employees must have a common language for executing your organization's goals and to be accountable to one another for getting the work done.

Does everyone in your organization know the difference between goals that are merely important and the "vital few" that are mission critical?

Do you have a visible, accessible, dynamic scoreboard to keep track of key measures of their success?

Do you translate high level work goals into individual key goals and tasks?

Do they continuously renew commitment to these key goals and hold each other accountable all of the time?

Do you celebrate all meaningful achievements? Are "high fives" frequent?
